WHEELING, JULY 15, 1889.

PERSONS going out of town for the summer can have the DAILY INTELLIGENCER mailed to them for 65 cents per month. The address of the paper will be changed as often as desired.

ANN O'DELIA DISS DENIES under oath that she thinks she is married. Before now ANN O'Delia has been mistaken.

LITTLE Switzerland is preserving her dignity in the face of big Germany. The sympathy of Americans will be with the under dog in this fight.

PROF. LESLIE, of the Pennsylvania Geological Survey, predicts the early exhaustion of the oil fields of Pennsylvania and New York. West Virginia's oil fields are ready, Professor.

THE Homestead warcloud shows a silver lining. The parties to the controversy are in conference and the result is likely to be an amicable understanding and resumption of operations. It is always to be regretted that these things cannot be turned "fall end foremost," so as to get the peaceful settlement before the war begins.

THE people of Johnstown resolve that they want to distribute the relief funds, and resent as an imputation on them the policy which places the distribution in other hands. The people of Johnstown should not so soon begin to be ugly. In local matters there are always local jealousies, easily avoided by competent outsiders. Johnstown would do better to let well enough alone.

Sunday Base Ball in Wheeling. Last year the management of the Wheeling Base Ball Club paid so much deference to public opinion in this city, that it opened the season with the declaration that the club should not play Sunday games elsewhere. Later this policy was abandoned, and the Wheeling club played Sunday games except at home. This was said to be a financial necessity.

Yesterday the long talked of Sunday game at home was begun as a preliminary to a series. Happily the game was stopped by the officers. It is complained by those who desired the game to go on that Sunday games are permitted on the tunnel ground and in other parts of the city, and that if the Island Park game is to be stopped all the others should be stopped as well.

All the others should be stopped on their own account, and this is one of the benefits to be hoped for from the action of yesterday. The good work having been begun, it should be carried to the end. Still there is some difference between the Island game and the other games. The scrub games are not played for an admission fee, and they do not draw thousands of people. If we desire a parallel let it be supposed that the management of one of our theatres opens for a theatrical performance on Sunday. Would the people approve that? Would not the officers of the law try to stop it?

Wheeling gets enough base ball in six days in the week. Wheeling already has enough to disturb her peace on Sundays. Whether the action against the players is good in law, is a matter to be determined in the courts. The moral sentiment of the community will watch the proceedings with interest, hoping that some way may be found to preserve some semblance of the Sabbath day.

There is a way, the INTELLIGENCER thinks, outside of the law. Those patrons of the game who do not approve of Sunday games can make the management feel their displeasure by absenting themselves from the week day games; and they will do unless they think more of base ball than they do of their convictions.

The Lighter Cut Nail. Our neighbor, the News-Letter, doubts if the action of the cut nail manufacturers, reducing the gauge of their nails so as to give as many nails per pound as the wire mon give, will prove effective in the way of competition. The question after all, it says, is "which nail does the customer prefer?"

Undoubtedly this is a most important question, and one yet to be solved. But certainly it was a step in the right direction to increase the number of nails per pound, as the difference in this respect heretofore has been a stumbling block of the most serious character. The wire men have played it for all it was worth by the most extensive publicity, heralding to the trade and to consumers the great inequality between the two nails in this respect. They thus educated the public mind to the idea that the cheaper nail was the wire nail.

This claim they can make no longer. The cut nail is now most decidedly the cheaper of the two. It proposes to give as many per pound and to sell them for less money. There will be from 25 to 30 cents per keg difference in the price for the same number of nails, and as the cut nail is a better nail intrinsically—that is, has greater holding power, as was proven by the Government test, it ought to regain something of its old place in the market.

On Saturday last there was to be seen in front of a prominent business house in this city a large collection of wire nails that had just been drawn from a lot of boxes opened by the house. They had been heavily coated with rust before they were driven into the boxes in order to make sure that they would hold until the packages were emptied of their contents.

This is an important fact and one that goes to strengthen the verdict pronounced by the Government test in favor of the cut nail. Who ever heard of coating cut nails in order to assure their holding power? And yet we are told that we may frequently see wire nails drawn from ordinary pine boxes that have been heavily rusted in order to keep them in place.

It is therefore not unreasonable to expect to see a reaction all along the line in favor of the old tried and true nail, now that the inducements to buy it are greater than ever as regards price, number of nails and superior holding power. People who build houses and desire every piece of lumber to hold fast and strong for all time will not risk a fancy nail of doubtful holding power when they can be assured in advance against all contingencies by the use of a nail that never flinches.

The Government Crop Report. The July crop report of the Government has one item in it that must be a puzzle to the farmers of this part of the country. It says: "In the Ohio Valley the condition is lower than elsewhere."

This is news heretofore. The crop condition of the Ohio Valley, according to every report that reaches us from points above and below, has not been so high for years. This is true as regards wheat, and especially true as regards grass, oats and potatoes, and we may now add, as regards corn also.

The last named crop was backward, no doubt, when the Government report was made out in the last days of June, but the weather for the last ten days has been such as to bring it forward with rapidity. There is every promise of a large corn crop—a full average at the very least—and an extraordinary crop of everything else. Corn has an excellent stand and a very rich color, and is developing rapidly in every respect.

If the condition of crops elsewhere sizes up with the Ohio Valley, the country as a whole is rich indeed in its agricultural prospects.

THE WEGE GAS STRIKE. A Visit to the Well on Saturday—A Good Pressure.

A reporter went out to Lashley's station Saturday morning to see the gas find on Brown's farm, and found the employees busy at work sinking the well, which is now down about sixty-five feet. The pocket or crevice was struck at about forty-five feet, and there was a strong showing of gas, which forced its way out of the well with a roar that could be distinctly heard a distance of one hundred yards. The employees at once extinguished the fire in the engine, and awaited the return of Mr. Brown, who was in Belleaire. In his return they had been informed that the gas was placing it in the well, proceeded to plug the eighteen-inch hole as well as possible. They then lit the gas, which burst some twelve or fifteen feet above the stand pipe that they had placed in the well, for more than fifteen hours. Mr. Brown, becoming convinced that the men had struck a pocket or seam, directed the men to proceed with the work, and although the flow has somewhat subsided, there is no doubt that there is a good supply of gas in that vicinity, as the old coal works has proven this for years by the trouble the miners have had with gas while at work. When they had placed the bucket in the well there was about three hundred pounds of gas over it, and it failed to hold the gas in. It would blow the mud and ground away and his out all around the building. This account is taken from the Belleaire Tribune.

Of Interest to Elks. The attention of the members of Wheeling Lodge No. 23, B. P. O. Elks, is directed to the advertisement in this issue calling on all of those who intend going to the grand Elks' reunion that is to be held in Pittsburgh this week to call at the office of Manager Tracy, of the Western Union company, who is the Exalted Ruler at the lodge here, at 7:30 o'clock this evening, for the purpose of securing their badges and other necessary credentials. The Wheeling Elks will go up to Pittsburgh to-morrow morning. There is going to be a good turnout of the boys, and wearing the handsome badges they have procured they will present quite a stunning appearance.

Cold, cough, croup is what philosophers term "a logical sequence." One is very liable to follow the other; but by curing the cold with a dose of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, the cough will be stopped, and the cold need not be followed by croup.

Mr. J. R. GRIMM, Seneca, Ky., says: "My child has sometimes been afflicted with croup, and at other times with whooping cough, and I have found Swift's Specific a most successful remedy, in no instance failing to effect a speedy and permanent cure."

THE GLASSWORKERS.

The Convention Down to Business—The Scale Settled—Yeast Questions. The Flint Glass Workers' National Convention on Saturday got down to practical business. The committees to which were referred matters pertaining to the various branches have been reporting, and these are being considered one at a time. The Committee on Engraving reported the wage scale, practically the same as is now in force, and it was ratified by the convention. The committee on the mold making branch also reported, modifying the apprentice law so as to give additional apprentice in shops employing eight or more mold-makers, and recommending last year's list, without the change to 55 hours for a week, and the report was adopted. The manufacturers had proposed a list of moves and wages on paste mold tumbler, but this was rejected. Mold-makers now work 58 hours per week.

The President of the Association receives $1,200 per year and the Secretary $1,100. A faint was made to reduce these salaries to $1,000 and $800 respectively, but the amendment failed. The wonder is that the Association is able to retain such men as it now has in these positions at the salaries they receive. Either some certainly command quite as much, if not more, in less onerous positions outside. There is no doubt of the re-election of both officers.

The proposition to abolish the national conventions and submit all questions to a vote of the trade, and elect the officers by a popular vote instead of by the representatives in convention, was also defeated.

A death fund has been established, so that upon the death of any member in good standing, the nearest of kin will receive $500, the money to be paid out of the national treasury.

There are several vexing questions under consideration, and in some particular the "waiting" policy has been adopted. For instance, the shade branch and the electric bulb branch are hard to adjust, and while they are pending the committee are putting off the hearing of complaints and grievances. This committee will till noon Saturday have heard two minor grievances. They are trying to wait till the wind-up, and everything will be pushed through in a hurry.

The convention will not get through with its work until Tuesday. It thought this week might be enough to do the work, but several questions have been sprung which delay the end. The first conference with manufacturers will be held with prescription men at Pittsburgh on Wednesday.

The Brilliant Glass Works. Mr. Weir, a Frenchman who was manager of the Brilliant glass works during the time it was operated by the Central Glass Company of Wheeling, is now negotiating for a lease of the works with the object of forming a company and running it. There seems to be some difficulty in the way of securing the lease and Mr. Weir is now thinking of building a ten-pot factory at Windsor Station, just west of the city, where he has been offered five acres of ground and valuable coal privileges.

Funeral of Prof. Voss. Prof. Henry Voss, sr., whose sad death by drowning in the creek was announced last week, was buried Saturday. The German Pioneer Society and the Order of Harugur attended the funeral in a body, headed by the Opera House band. The attendance was unusually large. Prof. Louis Voss, the youngest son, now of Milwaukee, was unable to come to the funeral, as he is confined to the house by the results of a recent surgical operation on one of his feet.

It Won't Bake Bread. In other words Hood's Sarsaparilla will not do impossibilities. It cannot claim to plainly what it has done, submit proofs from sources of unquestioned reliability, and ask you frankly if you are suffering from any disease or affliction caused or promoted by impure blood, or low state of the system, to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. The experience of others is sufficient assurance that you will not be disappointed in the result.
